Question Two: (20 points)

A: Read the following article carefully, and then in your ANSWER BOOKLET answer all the questions that follow. Your answers should be based on the article. (16 points)

How could a young English woman with no scientific training possibly make contact with a group of wild chimpanzees? At first, the animals ran away as soon as they saw her. But maybe because she knew very little about these wild animals, it is highly likely that her calmness gained their trust. It was only later that Jane would learn how dangerous they could be. She saw that different groups of chimpanzees had battles in which they tried to wipe out the rival group. But before this, her studies showed her that the chimpanzees could clearly communicate, allowing them to groom and help each other, share food as well as have arguments. Jane pointed out that the animals couldn't communicate using language like people, but they could communicate by touch and sound. Amazingly, she also realised they could use sign language.

At this time, people believed that only humans could use tools, but Jane watched chimpanzees using sticks to take ants from a tree, and then used the sticks to feed the ants to their young. Through her work, Jane spelled out to the scientific community for the first time that animals, too, could use tools.

Jane went on to write a number of books about her work. As well as explaining chimpanzees' highly developed social behaviour, she taught us that they are omnivores (people used to think they were vegetarian). In 2002, she became a UN Messenger for Peace.

Since her work in Tanzania, naturalists have continued to study different forms of communication between animals such as whales and elephants, who can pick up sounds made by other whales and elephants over large distances. I feel that we may well learn even more about animal communication in the future.

- 1) Jane directed people's attention to three ways chimpanzees used to communicate with each other. Write down these three ways. (3 points)
- 2) Jane made important discoveries that changed scientific understanding about animals. Write down two of these discoveries. (4 points)
- 3) Find out a word in the article which means "to brush and clean fur". (2 points)
- 4) Write down the sentence which indicates the writer's belief that it is possible we will understand more about animal communication over time. (3 points)
- 5) What does the underlined pronoun "they" refer to? (2 points)
- 6) The author believes that humans might learn important lessons if they could talk to animals. Think of this statement and in two sentences write down your point of view. (2 points)

B: CULTURE SPOT: (2 points)

Read the following extract from "Not of an age, but for all time" and then answer the question after:

Shakespeare died over 400 years ago, but today his plays and sonnets are still studied by over half the students in the world. The playwright's influence is everywhere.

Let's have a quick look at modern culture. Shakespeare's plays have influenced the plots of famous novels like Aldous Huxley's Brave New World and films like Ten Things I Hate About You.

- Why does the writer mention famous novels and films?
